

"ACTIVISM FOR AIR": A TOUR WITH DETROIT'S CLEAN AIR MOVEMENT

April 6th, 9:00 am to 6:00 pm
Free, with Lunch and Transportation Provided

Detroit's trash incinerator is not a good neighbor. This violator of the Clean Air Act contributes to climate change and threatens the health of thousands of residents living nearby. On this field trip we will travel to Detroit by bus and meet collaborators at The Ecology Center and Michigan Environmental Justice Coalition. We will visit the incinerator, speak to activists, and discuss this serious environmental justice issue and the intersections of race, gender, and income inequality that shape it. We will also learn what steps residents and activists are taking to address these issues. This is a capstone experience for the Gender, Justice, and Environmental Change specialization. Additional students and faculty may attend if space allows.

RSVP to gencenga@msu.edu
by March 28th to confirm your participation

Center for Gender
in Global Context
MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY