Find GenCen on Facebook

GenCen has an active Facebook Group (www.facebook.com/groups/MSUGenCen/), which is a great way to get more local, national, and international news items of gender-related interest, all on your Facebook News Feed. It is also a great way to network among students, staff and faculty, and it is more informal than the monthly GenCen Digest. We encourage all of our members to post relevant content in our group and share comments! We also have an "official" Page (www.facebook.com/MSUGenCen), where we post our events and other items of GenCen/MSU-related interest. Feel free to "like" us to stay up-to-date!

Tapestries of Hope film screening and Q&A

October 20

6:00-8:00pm [Doors open 5:30pm], Hannah Community Center Theater, 819 Abbot Rd, East Lansing

Tapestries of Hope is a documentary shot in Zimbabwe that investigates the myth that if a man rapes a virgin he cures his AIDS. As the country struggles with food shortages and mass exodus, this myth is still endorsed by some traditional healers. This myth has caused HIV/AIDS to be one of the few things that continues to flourish in this southern African country. Starring Betty Makoni, a Zimbabwean, child abuse survivor, and the founder of the Girl Child Network. GCN rescues abused girls, re-empowers them, and teaches them NOT to be defined by the abuses committed against them. The film bears witness to the resilience of the girls and of the filmmakers who, despite being incarcerated and deported, refused to be silenced. The documentary interlaces the girls' stories with the true confession of a dying man who raped to cure his own AIDS. Tapestries of Hope is the call to action to stop the rape and abuse of children in Zimbabwe and around the globe. Director and writer Michealene Risley is an MSU alumna, award-winning filmmaker, director and human rights activist whose documentary film projects have addressed the health and survival of over half the world population.

Career Services NEW Resources: Career Tools

<http://careernetwork.msu.edu/resources-tools/video-resources.html>

www.CareerNetwork.msu.edu/search

Career Services is pleased to announce a new dynamic search tool for finding personalized career resources: Career Tools. Use it to find the information you need, fast! Trending topics, peer ratings, and staff picks guide Spartans to popular resources. Plus, use filters such as identity (About Me), industry, and geography (Where I'm Headed) to find resources specifically for your students' needs.

MySpartanCareer becomes Handshake

The Career Services Network has partnered with Handshake- a modern career development platform. Handshake will be replacing our current system, MySpartanCareer, and will be the one stop shop for students to launch their career. Starting June 1, MSU will begin to utilize Handshake. We are excited about this move for many reasons, and think you will be too. In particular:

Handshake will enhance our student experience. Handshake is built on a fast, scalable, mobile infrastructure, which is familiar to students since it is the same type of platform utilized by many popular social applications (think Facebook for Careers). The system is intuitively easy to use and navigate, which we believe will increase utilization rates and engagement with our office. This will increase the number of students who are professionally ready, and ultimately translate to better career outcomes for all undergraduates on campus.

Handshake will expand our reach. The Handshake platform gives students access to relevant career opportunities and insights (the more students use the system, the better it gets at showing them information that is relevant to their interests), provides employers with more comprehensive and efficient access to talent, and gives us more tools to drive student engagement and increase student employment. We believe that MSU will be better able to track and expand current relationships with employers who are recruiting college talent, as well as develop new relationships with employers by allowing us to better view, track, segment and message to target industries and companies.

Who do you contact with questions? Career Fairs: Maya Craft mayac@msu.edu. Student Access, Workshops, and Advising: Randi Martinez mart1705@msu.edu.

MSU campus is now tobacco free

As part of our continuing efforts to create a healthier campus, Michigan State University became a tobacco-free environment on August 15. The ordinance applies to all property governed by the Board of Trustees and includes not only main campus but also all MSU sites across the state, nation and globe. In addition to traditional tobacco products such as cigarettes and chewing tobacco, the ordinance also prohibits the use of e-cigarettes and vaporizers. All FDA-approved nicotine replacement therapy products are permitted for cessation use. The rationale for this transition rests largely on a fundamental concern for the health of the entire campus community. Decades of research confirm the negative effects of smoking, smokeless tobacco and environmental tobacco smoke. We are counting on all members of the MSU community to help with this important effort. Faculty and staff members will play a key role in helping us with this culture change. More information about the ordinance, including an FAQ and toolkits for faculty, staff and supervisors, can be found at <http://tobaccofree.msu.edu/>.

MSU Breathe Easy: Tobacco & Nicotine Cessation Program Offered Free to Faculty and Staff

There will be an information session about the program on Wednesday, September 21, from 1:30 to 3pm in room 247 Olin Health Center. To register for the information session, faculty, staff and their adult benefits-eligible family members should call 517-353-2596 or send an email to Health4U@msu.edu by 5 p.m. on Tuesday, September 20. Attending the session does not obligate an attendee to enroll in the program. It does provide information to assist an attendee's decision of whether this cessation program is a viable personal choice. Space at the Breathe Easy information session is limited, therefore interested faculty and staff should register to attend. The Breathe Easy program encompasses a 17-hour total time commitment over the course of the 15-month program commitment. For the remainder of 2016, employees will not be required to use their own time, so long as they are compliant with attendance at the meetings. Supervisors are expected to allow full release time to encourage employee participation in the Breathe Easy program.

Announcement from Women's Resource Center on its Closure and Incorporation into the WorkLife Office

Dear Friends & Colleagues of the Michigan State University Women's Resource Center:

The MSU Women's Resource Center (WRC) has been providing services to the campus and Greater Lansing community for over 24 years. It is with great pride and an open mind that we have embarked on the next phase of the WRC legacy. At the close of the 2015-2016 academic year, the WRC was incorporated into the new WorkLife Office. This transition has been in the works for several years and we look toward the future with optimism and dedication to continuing to serve our campus community. Celebrate the Past: As we packed decades of history into University Archives boxes, we celebrated the many contributions the WRC has made in advancing the lives of women and educating the community about gender justice and social justice issues. From the programs, conferences, workshops, and seminars to resource referral, consultation, student organization advising and educational initiatives, we are proud of the work we have accomplished. Secure the Future: As anyone in the line of gender justice work will tell you, the work is not over. Gender and social inequity still persists in our culture and on our campus. Women remain marginalized in many arenas, especially for those who navigate the world with additional marginalized identities. We are confident the work will continue, in order to create a brighter future for the next generation. Honor the Legacy: The Women's Resource Center has been committed to creating a climate that advocates for gender equity, values inclusion and provides resources to the MSU community. We believe the legacy will continue on through you, our supporters, and the work that we will continue to do as the new WorkLife Office. You can visit us in our new office, Linton Hall, Suite 118, call 517-353-1635, and email worklife@msu.edu. All staff personal phone lines and email addresses will remain the same. We look forward to connecting with you at the WorkLife Office.

Bioethics Brown Bag: Ethics and Children with Differences in Sex Development and Gender Nonconformity
September 28

12:00-1:00pm, C102 Patenge Rm, East Fee Hall

www.msubioethics.clickwebinar.com/brownbag (streaming link)

This lecture is free and open to the public. You are welcome to bring your lunch. Beverages and light snacks will be provided. All lectures are recorded and posted online in our webinar archive.

Society once considered children born with atypical genital anatomy to be freaks of nature. Until recently, doctors labeled these children “hermaphrodites” and urged early appearance-altering surgery. While times have changed, somewhat, medical interventions continue despite mounting evidence of long-term harms associated with both medical and surgical “treatment.” When should society constrain clinicians from intervening in these contentious arenas?

Reverse Career Fair

September 28

6:00-7:30pm, Breslin Center Auxiliary Gym

Career Services is holding a Reverse Career Fair the Wednesday evening of Career Gallery. This is an opportunity for employers and student organizations to connect. Student organizations from across campus will be provided a table and allowed to send 4-6 student representatives as well as any handouts/information you may want to share. Employers will make their way around the tables and speak with organizations about how they can support you, connect with you through meetings, events, etc, how they can recruit your members and more! When you register please list your Student Org followed by your name (American Society of Mechanical Engineers--Joe Spartan). Please note: Only 1 member per organization needs to sign up.

Women’s Networking Association Fall 2016 Series

The mission of the Women’s Networking Association is to connect professional women across campus through meaningful and empowering relationships. Providing an opportunity for women to network and support one another is an essential step for building women’s leadership at MSU and in the Greater Lansing community. Events are free and open to all. To RSVP to any events, email worklife@msu.edu or call 517-353-1635.

Finding a Summer Research Opportunity

There are a variety of summer opportunities available for students. Programs are hosted by colleges and universities around the United States and they provide an intensive research experience on a particular topic within a scholarly discipline. Participants generally work with an advisor on a research project over the duration of their respective programs (usually 10 to 12 weeks). Many host universities cover all expenses (including travel, accommodations, and food) and provide a stipend. For undergraduates with plans for graduate or professional school after MSU, summer research provides the opportunity to expand your professional network and acquire experience in an area of interest. In this workshop, you will learn more about summer research, the benefits of participation, and effective search strategies, including how to find and apply for opportunities.

Domestic Violence Awareness Month Candlelight Vigil

October 21

6:30pm-8:00pm, Eli and Edythe Broad Art Museum

We invite you to gather with us at 6:30 pm on October 21 at the Broad Art Museum (547 E Circle Dr., East Lansing) for a Candlelight Vigil in remembrance and honor of victims and survivors of domestic violence. The purpose of the candlelight vigil is to provide an opportunity for all members of the Greater Lansing community to come together to honor those who have lost their lives, offer support to survivors of abuse and take a stand against domestic violence. Domestic Violence Awareness Month, observed in October, is a time for communities to unite to remember those who have lost their lives as a result of abuse, celebrate those who have survived, connect with those who work to end violence and raise public awareness about domestic violence in our communities. The Candlelight Vigil is a collaboration between EVE (End Violent Encounters), CARE (Capital Area Response Effort), MSU Safe Place, The Lansing Police Department, SIREN/Eaton Shelter, and The Women's Center of Greater Lansing.

For more information, please contact Lauren Kirk, Volunteer & Follow Up Advocacy Coordinator, CARE (Capital Area Response Effort) at (517) 483-6827, Alyssa Baumann, Volunteer & Advocacy Coordinator, MSU Safe Place at (517) 432-9570, or Meghan Faught, Community Relations Coordinator, EVE, at (517) 372-5976.

Fire Within: A New Generation of Chinese Women Artists Exhibit

Through February 12, 2017

Alan and Rebecca Ross Education Wing, Eli & Edythe Broad Art Museum

Fire Within: A New Generation of Chinese Women Artists focuses a critical lens on the artistic production of a group of highly talented, emerging women artists from China. Collectively, the artists in this exhibition investigate a wide-range of themes and issues, including the status of women in China; cultural and gender identity; interpersonal relationships; and more broad sociopolitical dynamics, both in China and beyond. Importantly, their probing investigations stir discussion and draw attention to their diverse and varied experiences. The generation of individuals born in China during the 1970s and after witnessed significant changes—including ideological, cultural, social, and in the domestic sphere—as a result of China's opening up to foreign markets and international exchange. These shifts have in turn motivated artists to experiment within their own artistic practices in order to better understand the struggles and conflicts they encounter both privately and publicly. Following this line of inquiry, Fire Within brings together fresh perspectives and approaches to traditional mediums with the intent to reveal the new forms of consciousness that have emerged in recent years. Taken together, the works on display transcend gender and cultural differences, instead tapping into a more universal sense of human nature.

Curated by Adjunct Curator Dr. Wang Chunchen in collaboration with Steven L. Bridges, Broad MSU Assistant Curator.

Microaggressions Macroimpact: Take a Stand Against Microaggressions

In response to growing social justice issues of race, gender, sexual orientation, ability, etc., Residence Halls Association has launched its campaign, Microaggressions Macroimpact. The primarily student-run initiative will focus on educating the campus community on microaggressions, and encouraging our fellow Spartans to create events, discussions, and initiatives on the impact our words have on one another. With consent, the photo campaign will highlight the faces and stories of students who deal with exclusion and prejudice on a daily basis. Look for their #WeAreAllSpartans on social media. MSU Today Article of Interest: "Driven by STEM Opportunities, More Women Enrolling in MSU Engineering"

"Nearly 21 percent of the students enrolled this year in the Michigan State University College of Engineering are women. That's up from 18 percent last year, when the college first saw women enrollment top more than 1,000. Dean Leo Kempel said this year's upward trend remains consistent with the college's overall enrollment increase for nearly a decade."

2nd Annual "Inform. Empower. Prevent. Let's End Campus Sexual Assault" Summit

September 30

9:00am-4:30pm, U of M North Campus Research Complex

Campus sexual assault has been a long standing and often overlooked problem both in Michigan and across the country. Many believe sexual assault won't happen to them, to someone they know or be committed by someone they know. It is common to think sexual assault isn't happening where I am, when in reality it can happen to anyone. The "Let's End Campus Sexual Assault" initiative brings together university officials, students, law enforcement, stakeholders and legislators for a discussion on how we can inform students, empower survivors and bystanders, and prevent sexual assault on campuses. GOALS:

- Change the culture surrounding sexual assault.
- Make Michigan a leader in ending sexual assault among the college aged population.
- Inform stakeholders, empower individuals, and prevent sexual assaults.
- Encourage collaboration and bipartisan efforts to identify best practices in the fight against sexual assault.

Michigan's public, private, and community colleges have been invited to participate in the 2016 summit. If you are a Michigan college student, high-school student, or individual interested in attending the summit independent of your school, sign up here. Tickets will be released on a first come, first served basis depending on availability in September 2016.

Hope and Healing: A Support Group for Teen Girls

Wednesdays 3:00-4:30pm

A healing and supportive group for teen girl sexual abuse survivors. Sexual abuse is any kind of showing or touching of private parts that is unwanted, or being forced, manipulated or coerced to do something sexual. We meet in a cozy group room with couches & snacks to ensure everyone feels comfortable. After a sexual assault you likely feel a mix of emotions including fear, shame, sadness, anger, and loneliness. This group provides a safe place to come and meet with others who understand what you are going through. The group helps you deal with these emotions while celebrating your strength and survival skills. You get the unique opportunity to share and support other girls who have been through similar situations. Does it Cost Anything? No. The group is totally free. Topics we may cover in group include: ~ How abuse affects self-esteem ~ Choosing who and how to tell ~ Acknowledging survival tools ~ Healthy relationships ~ Building support ~ Physical and emotional healing ~ Growing stronger and moving forward. Do I Have to Share? We ask that each girl share their name and age and how they knew or did not know their abuser. As far as sharing more about your story, it is completely up to you. You get to choose what information you share. Is it Confidential? Your information with us is entirely confidential. The only exception are things that fall under state mandatory reporting guidelines (like someone being abused or planning on harming themselves). We respect everyone's privacy and maintain trust in the group and ask all members to do the same.

Great Girls in Michigan History Exhibit

Through February 2017, Michigan Women's Historical Center & Hall of Fame, 213 W Malcolm X St, Lansing Michigan girls do great things. In this exhibit you will meet nine girls from different eras, with different dreams, from across the state of Michigan who all accomplished something amazing before the age of 20. It was not always easy for these girls; most had significant obstacles to overcome to reach their goals. Visitors will leave knowing what qualities Great Girls possess and inspired to reach their own dreams. This is appropriate for visitors of all ages. Admission: $3.00 adults; $2.00 students (6-18 yrs); Free for children under 5. Hours: Wednesday-Saturday 12:00-4:00pm and the 1st Sunday of every month 2:00-4:00pm. The Center is closed on major holiday weekends. Flexible times are available with advance group reservations.

Donate to the Women's Center of Greater Lansing

"Since the Women's Center of Greater Lansing opened its doors in 2005, we have remained the only nonprofit organization in the Lansing area that provides essential services to enable women to be successful. Our mission is to guide, empower, and heal women. What makes us unique is HOW we do what we do. All of our services are offered on a one-to-one basis. No one is turned away, even those that can't pay. We are extremely grateful for our donors who contribute supplies year after year, but this year, we are specifically seeking cash donations. For our current fiscal year, our operating expenses have been $147,900 and our revenue, which comes to us primarily in the form of donations, has been $29,103. Our operating income has not been this slim in a long time and we are dangerously close to running out of operating funds. To close this gap, we are seeking cash donations so we can remain open and providing services. Your donation will help us provide these fundamental services for our clients:

- Employment. We uncover potential, help with resumes, job search tools, interview skills, and training.
- Computer lab. Reserved for job seekers with up-to-date software so they develop competitive skills.

- Essential resources. Our professional clothes closet offers confidence boosting clothing and accessories; our personal care and feminine hygiene closet provides women with hard-to-afford daily products and wigs to the women who are undergoing cancer treatment.
- Counseling. Our team of counselors help women cope with unemployment, loss, anxiety, divorce, sexual assault, intimate partner violence, child abuse, cancer and other soul-crushing traumas.
- Support groups. We cover a variety of topics such as: Healthy Relationships and Domestic Violence, Disability, Cars 101, Empowerment, Financial Independence, Caregiver Support, Learning To Let Go, Work Your Image, Healthy Communication, Anxiety and much more.
- Safety. We help women get out of abusive relationships safely.”

Time Out Youth, True Colors Fund and Human Rights Campaign release "On Our Own: A Survival Guide for Independent LGBTQ Youth"

The Human Rights Campaign (HRC) Foundation, the educational arm of the nation’s largest lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) civil rights organization, in partnership with the True Colors Fund, co-founded by Cyndi Lauper, and Time Out Youth Center in Charlotte, North Carolina, released an innovative guide for LGBTQ youth facing the daunting prospect of living on their own after leaving unsupportive or abusive homes, or aging out of foster care. On Our Own: A Survival Guide for Independent LGBTQ Youth is geared toward older teens and young adults forced to fend for themselves, typically without parental support and often lacking the skills or resources needed to live safely and begin building a successful life. The guide provides practical advice on essential topics ranging from finding housing, going to school and opening a bank account, to getting a job, accessing healthcare and living on a budget.

NPR Article of Interest: “New Report Says Pentagon Not Doing Enough For Sexual Assault Victims”

“The military released data this month showing over 6,000 reported sexual assaults during 2015. The real number is likely three or four times higher. Just like in the civilian world, most rape doesn't get reported, and the Pentagon acknowledges this happens in the military because victims fear they — not the perpetrators — will face reprisals from commanders. Human Rights Watch says in a report today that the Pentagon doesn't do enough to repair the damage from those reprisals. “It's a common perception in the military that you have to choose between reporting your rape and staying in the military,” said Sara Darehshori, who interviewed hundreds of military sexual assault survivors for the organization.

... Men make up the vast majority of the military — 85 percent — and a slight majority of military sexual assault victims, though only 10 percent report the crime, compared with 38 percent of women, according to the Pentagon's most recent report on sexual assault in the military. ... “Nothing has been done for the thousands of people who were kicked out after they reported their sexual assault and still have to live with these terrible discharge papers that continue to impact their lives,” says Darehshori, with Human Rights Watch. She says many of them believe incorrectly that a less-than-honorable discharge can be easily upgraded by a Discharge Review Board or the Board of Corrections of Military Records. “In fact, those bodies are dead ends,” says Darehshori. She says they upgrade only a tiny fraction of the cases that come up for review. “Victims we spoke to are reluctant to go to the boards [and] bare their souls and relive trauma, when they have essentially no chance of being heard,” she says. In 2014, the Pentagon directed the boards to give more weight to issues like post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), which affects many rape survivors. This year, the Pentagon clarified that this applies to vets who may have been rejected previously, or who are past the normal deadlines to apply.

A Pentagon spokesman says the rate of upgrade for those PTSD cases is now near 40 percent, but he says the boards do not track how many sexual assault cases get upgraded. The Pentagon's inspector general released a report this month that found “personality disorder” and other mental health classifications still are being misused to put sexual assault survivors out of the military.”

USAToday Article of Interest: “Native American girls fall through the cracks”

They're poor, more likely to be sexually abused, end up in foster care, drop out of school, become homeless. They're often the prey of traffickers. American Indian and Native Alaskan girls are a small fraction of the population, but they are over-represented in the juvenile justice system, whether they are living on or off the reservation. Native American girls have the highest rates of incarceration of any ethnic group. They are nearly five times more likely than white girls to be confined to a juvenile detention facility, according to the U.S. Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention. There are programs on tribal lands that work with Native girls who have been caught up in the system, using federal funds. But American Indian girls often find themselves without state or local social service programs tailored to their cultural backgrounds and experiences, which are distinct from other girls living in or on the edge of poverty. “As Indian people, our greatest hope is our children. And our kids are really at risk,” said Carla Fredericks, director of the American Indian Law Clinic at the University of Colorado Law School in Boulder. “The only way we can help these girls is if we do it cooperatively, with the states, federal government and within our own communities.”

“Ryan C. Briggs and Scott Weathers, Gender and location in African politics scholarship: The other white man's burden?”

While the percentage of women publishing in African Affairs and The Journal of Modern African Studies from 1993 until 2013 has increased, the percentage of articles by Africa-based authors has declined. We present evidence suggesting that this decline is not being driven by lower submission rates from Africa but rather by low and declining acceptance rates. We also find that Africa-based scholars, but not women, are systematically cited less than others. We then analyze article titles and find preliminary evidence suggesting that Africa-based authors are more likely to write on a small number of countries and less likely to generalize. Authors based outside Africa seem more likely to generalize to the continent and are more likely to write on economics or conflict. These patterns have implications for the diversity of the discipline and the state of our knowledge about Africa.

Huffington Post: “Undoing Unawareness: How Men Can Help Fight Sexual Assault”

Robert Mavrogordato, Nurse, SANE, and empathetic human being

“A storm is needed. As men, we can help. Until we do, our sisters, daughters and friends will fill my hospital’s exam room, Matt’s crisis center and Steve’s courtroom. We can be the butterflies that create a storm, but only if we collectively become more aware. We can become an active part of the solution and not just an overwhelming part of the problem. There are many ways to become more aware and engaged in combating rape culture. We can have formal training as victim advocates, prevention education outreach coordinators, prosecutors, or SANEs. Or we can simply be graduate students on a bicycle, like Carl-Fredrik Arndt and Peter Jonsson. We can be professionals or ordinary men who recognize without qualification that women do nothing to deserve to have their humanity stolen. We can believe victims, who overwhelmingly tell the truth. We can stop to intervene rather than be complicit with rape culture. We can add more of our voices to the chorus of dedicated women who have long worked to bring about change. We can ask the women with whom we share our lives and homes what they think about the realities of life on both sides of the curtain.”

Conferences and Workshops

Migration With(out) Boundaries

MSU Graduate Student Research Conference on Migration

October 21-22

Michigan State University will host the fifth annual graduate student research conference on migration, welcoming papers on the theme, Migration With(out) Boundaries. Migration Studies is a burgeoning and all-too-relevant area of academic attention, and the conference seeks to foster a cohort of scholars working on any thematic, conceptual, spatial, or temporal aspect of human migration from any disciplinary perspective. Submissions are welcome from academics at any stage of their graduate career, and may include research designs, dissertation or thesis chapters, methodological models, works in progress, and preliminary findings. Dr. Nancy Foner, Distinguished Professor of Sociology at Hunter College and the Graduate Center of the City University of New York will present a keynote address on the evening of Friday, October 21. Paper sessions will take place on Saturday, October 22. Michigan State University faculty representing the field of migration studies across numerous disciplines and departments will serve as discussants.

Individual Papers:

Your submission must include the presentation title, abstract (of no more than 300 words), home institution and affiliated department(s), and co-authors (if applicable).

A $25 conference fee will be due upon confirmation of attendance.

Panel Submissions:

Applicants are encouraged to submit a panel proposal. This will include a title and abstract for the panel as a whole, as well as individual titles and abstracts for each constituent paper.

Kalamazoo College, Kalamazoo, MI

The Kalamazoo College Arcus Center for Social Justice Leadership's second WITH/OUT — ¿BORDERS? Conference seeks to bring people together across disciplines and social locations whose work envisions an imaginative, robust, plentiful and just future: Academics and organic intellectuals, artists and speculative fiction writers, critical pedagogues and prison abolitionists, frontline organizers and next systems advocates, scientists and human rights leaders are all welcomed. This will be a CONFERENCE – [UN] CONFERENCE featuring modules that will include panel discussions, breakout sessions, films and performances designed to prompt us to collectively conjure, theorize, decolonize and map a future we can all thrive in. Modules will focus on the following interventions: Cultural and academic work informed by Afrofuturism, the visioning of post-oppression desire through fantasy, film, technology and speculative fiction; radical teaching, campus activism and education advocacy that upends colonial knowledge to create liberatory educational structures and paradigms; ideologies and technologies that move toward a renewable energy [r]evolution and sustainable future; global and local work creating next systems and deploying new economic possibilities and strategies.

Seneca Falls Dialogues: Lean Out: Gender, Economics, and Enterprise

Registration opens in June. The SFD is sponsored by The Women's Institute for Leadership and Learning (WILL) in collaboration with the College Alliance (Hobart and William Smith Colleges, Monroe Community College, The College at Brockport: State University of New York, the University of Rochester, St. John Fisher College), Friends of the Women's Rights National Park, the National Women's Hall of Fame, the Town of Seneca Falls, and the Greater Rochester Area Branch of American Association of University Women.

National Women's Studies Association Annual Conference: Decoloniality

November 10-13, Montreal, Quebec

Decoloniality is a worldview that denaturalizes settler colonial logics and structuring violences. Coloniality and settler governance are transnational in scope and include territorial occupation, conquest, removal, economic exploitation, resource extraction, displacement, and dehumanization. Settler colonialism is also a way of knowing that permeates institutions, including education, the law, science, economics, politics, and religion. Decoloniality disrupts and departs from settler logics, structures, myths, stories, archives, institutions, affects, embodiments, aesthetics, desires, ontologies, categories, cartographies, and politics. It has a long, diverse genealogy and can be understood as an ongoing process of co-resistance and alliance. As an approach to thought and action, decolonial work exposes how coloniality is not "past": simultaneously, it traces forms of critical and creative resistance and shows possibilities for (and the necessity of) decolonial being/ knowing/ loving/ resisting/ creating (L. Simpson 2015).

Everyday Life on the African Continent: Fun, Leisure and Expressivity

Abstracts due September 30

For the full CFP, see: <https://melissagraboyes.com/everyday-life-on-the-continent>

This volume, edited by a multi-disciplinary group of scholars who work in different regions of Africa, will be a collection of essays focusing on forms of leisure and expressivity on the continent. Each short and descriptive essay (5000-6000 words), will be written in accessible prose and will focus on providing details about a cultural form, explaining the context(s) in which it occurs, and providing some analysis as to its significance. The book will be thematically organized, with multiple chapters on topics such as Fashion and Beauty, Sports and Games, Love and Dating, and Creative Arts. The volume targets an undergraduate audience with limited knowledge of the continent. The intent is for the volume to include essays from all regions of the continent, from rural and urban settings, about the present or the past, and about “popular” and “traditional” practices. This edited volume is under pre-completion contract with Ohio University Press, and 500 word abstracts are due by September 30, 2016 to lmgilman@uoregon.edu.

Gendered Perspectives on International Development

Applications accepted on a rolling basis.

Gendered Perspectives on International Development (GPID) publishes scholarly work on global social, political, and economic change and its gendered effects in developing nations. GPID cross-cuts disciplines, bringing together research, critical analyses, and proposals for change. Our previous series, the WID Working Papers (1981-2008), was among the first scholarly publications dedicated to promoting research on the links between international development and women and gender issues. In this tradition, GPID recognizes diverse processes of international development and globalization, and new directions in scholarship on gender relations. The goals of GPID are: 1) to promote research that contributes to gendered analysis of social change; 2) to highlight the effects of international development policy and globalization on gender roles and gender relations; and 3) to encourage new approaches to international development policy and programming. GPID Working Papers are article-length manuscripts (9,000-word maximum) by scholars from a broad range of disciplines, disseminating materials at a late stage of formulation that contribute new understandings of women’s and men’s roles and gender relations amidst economic, social, and political change. Individual papers in the series address a range of topics, such as: gender, violence, and human rights; gender and agriculture; reproductive health and healthcare; gender and social movements; masculinities and development; and the gendered division of labor. We particularly encourage manuscripts that bridge the gap between research, policy, and practice. If you are interested in submitting a manuscript to the GPID Working Papers series, please send a 150-word abstract summarizing the paper’s essential points and findings to Jessica Ott, Managing Editor, at papers@msu.edu. If the abstract suggests your paper is suitable for the GPID Working Papers, the full paper will be invited for peer review and publication consideration. Please note that authors retain the copyright to their papers and are encouraged to publish their papers in other journals.

QED: A Journal in GLBTQ Worldmaking

Applications accepted on a rolling basis.

QED: A Journal in GLBTQ Worldmaking ventures to bring together scholars, activists, public intellectuals, policy makers, artists, and other cultural producers to explore issues that matter to the diverse lived experience, struggle, and transformation of GLBTQ peoples wherever they may be. With an emphasis on worldmaking praxis, QED mobilizes public argument, theory, criticism, and history through its published essays, commentaries, interviews, roundtable discussions, and event, performance, and book review. The journal is published three times per year. Submission guidelines can be found at the website linked above.

Women in Judaism: A Multidisciplinary Journal

Applications accepted on a rolling basis.

Women in Judaism: A Multidisciplinary Journal is an academic, refereed journal published exclusively on the Internet, and devoted to scholarly debate on gender-related issues in Judaism. The ultimate aim of the journal is to promote the reconceptualization of the study of Judaism, by acknowledging and incorporating the roles played by women, and by encouraging the development of alternative research paradigms. Cross-methodological and interdisciplinary, the journal does not promote a fixed ideology, and welcomes a variety of approaches. Submissions are always welcome. Electronic submissions through the journal's system are encouraged at all times. See the link above for submission citation and formatting guidelines. What to submit: Articles; essays; short notes; book, film and theatre reviews; conference proceedings and bibliographies from all disciplines in the humanities and social sciences. Materials for the Journal are submitted to a blind-review process. The editors reserve the right to edit manuscripts with respect to length and content; however, any substantial changes will be made in consultation with the author. Previously published materials are also considered. However, it is the author's responsibility to obtain the copyright permission from their publisher. Authors are welcome to include images and/or pictures with their submission. Copyright issues for these should be cleared by the authors before submission. Women in Judaism usually publishes within twelve months. Every effort is made to shorten the publication schedule. Authors are encouraged to inquire about the status of their submissions periodically. Prior to the publication date, authors will be required to sign a copyright agreement with Women in Judaism Inc. Basically, this copyright agreement grants Women in Judaism the exclusive rights to publish the work on the Internet. Women in Judaism: A Multidisciplinary Journal is a non-paying market.

Trauma, Violence, & Abuse

Applications accepted on a rolling basis.

Trauma, Violence, & Abuse is devoted to synthesizing, expanding, and organizing knowledge on all forms of trauma, violence and abuse. It is dedicated to professionals and advanced students who work in all forms of trauma, violence and abuse and is intended to compile knowledge that impacts practice, policy, and research. A practitioner-oriented journal, Trauma, Violence, & Abuse (TVA) publishes review manuscripts which cover a body of empirical research, legal case studies, or theoretical/conceptual ideas affecting practice, policy, and research. TVA does not publish case studies nor reports of individual research studies. TVA accepts comprehensive reviews of research, legal cases, or conceptual and theoretical developments in any aspect of trauma, violence or abuse. Each manuscript must begin with a clear description of the knowledge area that is being researched or reviewed and its relevance to understanding or dealing with trauma, violence, or abuse. Each review manuscript must also provide a clear discussion of the limits of the knowledge which has been reviewed, and must include two summary tables; one of critical findings and the other listing implications of the review for practice, policy, and research. The tables must accompany submission. Manuscripts should be prepared in APA style and may be up to forty typed double spaced pages in length. All manuscripts are peer reviewed and should be submitted with a letter indicating that the material has not been published elsewhere and is not under review at another publication. Manuscripts should be submitted electronically to <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/tva> where authors will be required to set up an online account on the SageTrack system powered by ScholarOne. Inquiries may be made by email at contej@u.washington.edu.

Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies Washington University in St. Louis

The committee will review applications until the position is filled, but applications should be received by October 1 to ensure full consideration.

The Department of Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies at Washington University in St. Louis seeks a scholar trained in social science methods whose research is non-US based. We particularly encourage applications from candidates whose work focuses on the global south and is interdisciplinary in nature; transnational expertise is also welcome. Candidates must have completed the Ph.D. in gender and sexuality studies or a social science-related field, including anthropology, economics, geography, political science, psychology, or sociology, by July 1, 2017 and be eligible to work in the United States. Candidates at the Associate and full Professor rank must have a distinguished record of publication in the field.

The duties of this position include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses; conducting research and other scholarly activities, including publishing in scholarly journals; and performing departmental and university service and other duties assigned by the University. The normal teaching load is 2/2. Diversity and inclusion are core values of Washington University, and the successful candidate will demonstrate the ability to create inclusive classrooms and environments in which a diverse array of students learn and thrive.

The Department of Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies at Washington University has a vibrant undergraduate major and minor, and a strong and expanding graduate certificate program. We currently have a core faculty of eight, and affiliated faculty across the humanities, in anthropology and sociology, and in law and social work. The department's research strengths include race, gender and cultural studies, sexuality studies, and feminist and queer theory. Applicants should submit a letter of interest describing their scholarly qualifications and research; current curriculum vitae; teaching statement detailing their approach to teaching and to creating diverse and inclusive learning environments; and three (3) letters of recommendation to wgss@wustl.edu. Requests for additional information may be directed to Professor Andrea Friedman, Search Committee Chair, at afriedman@wustl.edu.

Cluster Hire in Race, Immigration, and Integration, University of California Riverside

Applications accepted until position is filled.

The University of California Riverside is embarking on a major new hiring initiative that will add 300 tenure-track positions in 33 cross-disciplinary areas selected through a peer-reviewed competition. Over the next three years, we will hire multiple faculty members in each area and invest in research infrastructure to support their work. This announcement aims to fill up to four positions, at both the junior and senior levels, in social science research related to "Race, Immigration, and Integration: Empirical and Applied Approaches." Topical areas of focus in this cluster search include: social movement and political power, including community mobilization against discrimination, hate crimes, police brutality, and immigrant detention; educational opportunities across the K-16 education pipeline with a focus on racialization, including its intersections with class, gender, sexuality, and immigration status; the study of media (including mainstream media, ethnic media, and social media) and its relationship to social attitudes, civic engagement, and community formation; and demography and public health, including disparities in health and health care delivery, immigrant health, and culturally competent health care services. Candidates should clearly indicate their topic(s) of focus in their cover letter. We are looking for candidates with a strong research record commensurate with rank, including relevant fellowships, honors, and awards. Candidates will be expected to teach and guide the research of undergraduate and graduate students, and they should be committed to boosting UCR's research in empirical and applied research on race, immigration, and integration.

Study Opportunities

Spring 2017 MSU Courses of Interest:

HST201, Section 6: Historical Methods and Skills – Section focus: Docile Women, Loyal Warriors, and Other Myths of Old Japan. M/W 3:00-4:30pm. This class is exclusively focused on issues of gender in pre-modern Japan. We will read some fascinating translated primary source documents, including romantic literature, diaries that reveal that underside of life at court, warrior accounts of medieval battle, and more. This class will be taught by associate professor Ethan Segal, segale@msu.edu.

HST850, Section 2: Seminar in Comparative History: Sexuality, Health, and Illness. M 4:10-7:00pm. The topic is the history of sexuality, health, and illness, and the course is comparative in that it explores the US, Japanese, Korean, and Chinese histories in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The course will be useful for students studying medical anthropology, not to mention those in women, gender, sexuality studies. This course will be taught by professor Naoko Wake, wake@msu.edu.

MSU Graduate Specialization in Women and Gender

The Graduate Specialization in Women and Gender is designed for completion by either Master's or doctoral students. The graduate specialization in Women and Gender is designed to foster the study of women and gender across disciplines and national borders, provide opportunities for graduate students to obtain a comprehensive, cross/interdisciplinary academic experience in women and gender, and to foster the growth of interdisciplinary research and teaching on women and gender. Emphasis is given to understanding the diversity of women's lives nationally and globally. The graduate specialization is open to graduate students with adequate undergraduate preparation in women and gender. The specialization should complement advanced, discipline-based degrees by providing an interdisciplinary, feminist component.

MSU Undergraduate Minor in Defense Studies & Leadership

The new minor in Defense Studies and Leadership is now available for enrollment. This minor is open to all undergraduates. The minor is administered by the Department of History, with Emily Tabuteau as advisor. She can be contacted at tabuteau@msu.edu. Students who want to talk before deciding whether to take on the minor should also email the advisor to set up a time to meet.

MSU Undergraduate Minor in Bioethics, Humanities, and Society

This program strives to serve students who seek to broaden their understanding of health and healing by drawing on several disciplinary perspectives, including philosophy, history, literature, anthropology, sociology, and others. We commonly find that, among others, many pre-professional students (pre-nursing, pre-dental, pre-medical, and pre-public health) are interested in our program.

MA in Women's History at Sarah Lawrence College

This program is intellectually challenging and highly focused. It introduces students to the growing historical literature on women, feminist theory, and research methods and resources in the field.

MA in Women's and Gender Studies at University of Southern Florida

The mission of the Department of Women's and Gender Studies at the University of South Florida is feminist undergraduate and graduate education, research, and practice for social justice by engaging students in the discovery and production of knowledge that emerges from feminist perspectives on culture and society.

Concentration in Gender and Sexuality Studies at Syracuse University in Florence

Syracuse University in Florence is happy to announce the expansion of its academic concentration in Gender and Sexuality Studies, which now offers 9 upper-division courses cross-listed in both Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender Studies (LGBT) and Women's and Gender Studies (WGS). Gender and Sexuality Studies in Florence provides an opportunity for students to explore European attitudes and lifestyles that are often very different from those current in their home culture. Internships and opportunities for Community Engagement with local organizations, municipal offices and activist groups are open to all students.

MA in Women's and Gender Studies at the University of Florida

A Master's degree in Women's Studies prepares you for doctoral work in a broad range of disciplines or for careers in teaching, social policy making, nongovernmental organizations, health and human services, and the arts and performance. Students pursuing interdisciplinary graduate work in the Center for Women's Studies and Gender Research at the University of Florida learn about feminist and other theoretical approaches and methodologies for examining the role of gender in cultural systems. Gender is understood in intersection with other sociocultural categories, including race, ethnicity, social class, sexuality, religion, physical ability, age, and nationality.
